1. Introduction

This is a provisional digital version of the newest edition of the Oera Linda-book. Part 1 contains scans of the original manuscript, provided with line numbering. The following parts will contain transliteration, translation, discussion/ references, dictionary/ catalog and illustrations. In the printed version everything will have been further improved (in particular my English).

The last edition of the Oera Linda-book, in Dutch by Goffe Th. Jensma (2006) had copies of each page with next to it a transliteration and on the adjacent page notes and translation:

Jensma's transliteration had line numbering and it followed the lining of the original. It was easy to compare original and transliteration, but difficult to compare the translation with the original text. The present new edition is aimed at making the original document and language more accessible. The benefit of splitting the project in parts, is that one can add other translations, without always needing the original and transliteration, since the latter two are the same for every language. In Jensma's edition, some pages had no or hardly any notes, while other pages had many. Similarly, the translation did not always need the same amount of space. This way, much paper space was wasted and sometimes the text was compressed. Since in the new edition the original page numbers will be clearly displayed, no space will have to be wasted or compressed.

2. Notes about the manuscript

If the manuscript is authentic, it is a copy made by Hidde Oera Linda in 1256 CE, probably on Spanish-Arabic paper.

The actual paper size is 291 by 210 mm, except the first sheet which was not numbered and contains two letters of instruction. I numbered these letters 00a and 00b.

Missing pages are twenty between 168 and 189, two between 192 and 195, and an unknown number after 210. To mark the lack in this edition, I added an illustrated page at these three sites.

Scans of the manuscript were used from the website of Tresoar, the archive in Leeuwarden, Friesland that guards it. Two pages had minor scanning errors (153 and 159), which I fixed using a (lower resolution, gray scale) scan of the page in Jensma's 2006 edition.

Almost all pages have 32 lines, except:

Pages 00a - 00b: 23 and 25 lines; Page 18: 30 lines; Pages 12, 15, 25, 68 and 72 have 31 lines; Page 97, has a (half) line filled with tildes (~). Like Jensma, I decided to count this as a line, resulting in the page having 33 lines.

Remarkable is that the text at page 72 does not start at the first line or even on line 30 of the previous page. I suppose that the previous, lost original had an illustration here, that the copyist intended to reproduce later, hence reserving space for it, but in the end never got to do it.

Pages 45-47 contain drawings of the "JOL" wheel, the alphabet and numbers. Where the graphics are, line numbering is continued (as in Jensma's edition).

Sometimes one or a few words are added after the last line (e.g. pp.16,43,63), or before the first (p.107). In the transliteration, these will be considered as belonging to the last or first line respectively. When fragments were added below the text to be inserted (e.g. p.20) this text is considered to be part of the line of insertion.

3. Line numbering differences relative to Jensma's

On pages 17, 18, 19, 20, 22, 29 and 41, a law number is written above the first line. Jensma counted this as line 1, resulting in 33 lines (page 18: 31 lines). I have decided to differ from Jensma here and not count this as a line. Instead I count this number as belonging to line 1, as with the added word at the beginning of page 107.

Page 33 in Jensma's edition has a flawed line numbering. On page 72, he had the text start at line 6 but this should have been 5.

4. Table page numbering Ottema and Sandbach

Sandbach (1876) used the same page numbering as Ottema (1872 and 1876). Transliteration was on the even pages.

5. Used illustrations

On the title page, a photo of the North Sea is blended with a fragment of "Paskaart van een Gedeelte der Noort Zee" by Jan Luyken, as used in "De Nieuwe Groote Lichtende Zee-Fakkel, 't Eerste Deel". Amsterdam: Johannes van Keulen, 1681 - 1799. (Bók, bok, bog, Buch and boek, placed at the six spokes of the JOL, are the Icelandic/ Faroese, Norse/ Swedish, Danish, German and Dutch/ Frisian words for book. In the language of the OLB, the word is spelled BOK.)

Page between 168 and 189: "Queen Berthe instructing girls to spin flax on spindles using distaffs" (1888) by Albrecht Samuel Anker (1831–1910).

Page between 192 and 195: Fragment of votive altar dedicated to Nehalennia by Marcus Exgingius Agricola, found (1970?) north of Colijnsplaat (National Museum of Antiquities, Leiden).

Page after 210: Fragment of "Nieuwe verbeterde paskaart van 't Texel en Vlie stroom" (scale ca 1:225.000) from "Nieuwe lootsmans Wegwijser" by Ch. Middagten, Amsterdam 1713.
